Teaching Children's Literature Christine Leland, Mitzi Lewison, Jerome Charles Harste, 2013 Offers a fresh perspective on how to implement children's literature across the curriculum in ways that are both effective and purposeful It invites multiple ways of engaging with literature that extend beyond the genre and elements approach and also addresses potential problems or issues that teachers may confront

Action, Talk, and Text Gordon Wells, 2001 This book draws from six years work by the Developing Inquiring Communities in Education Project DICEP to provide a range of practical replicable methods for building collaborative communities in which democratic principles of education may be realized Recognizing that each classroom is unique in its makeup its context and its history these seasoned teacher researchers rely heavily on discourse both spoken and written to engage students in the active learning process Their findings are striking and clear and testify to the exciting potential that dialogic interaction and collaborative knowledge building have for the field of education Key features of this book are identification of appropriate research questions real life teaching strategies based on extensive hands on experience in the field and workable suggestions for facilitating inquiry based learning and teaching

Writing Superheroes Anne Haas Dyson, Based on an ethnographic study in an urban classroom of 7 to 9 year olds Writing Superheroes examines how young school children use popular culture especially superhero stories in the unofficial peer social world and in the official school literacy curriculum In one sense the book is about children writing superheroes about children appropriating superhero stories in their fiction writing and dramatic play on the playground and in the classroom These stories offer children identities as powerful people who do battle against evil and win The stories however also reveal limiting ideological assumptions about relations between people boys and girls adults and children people of varied heritages physical demeanors and social classes The book then is also about children as writing superheroes With the assistance of their teacher the observed children became superheroes of another sort able to take on powerful cultural storylines In this book Anne Dyson examines how the children s interest in and conflicts about commercial culture give rise to both literacy and social learning including learning how to participate in a community of differences

Natural Allies Soo Hong,2020-07-22 In Natural Allies Soo Hong offers a paradigm shift in how we think about family engagement with schools Hong challenges the conventional depiction of parents and teachers as natural enemies and shows how through teachers initiative and commitment they can become natural allies instead Based on a three year ethnographic study the book features the experiences and motivations of five urban school teachers who have successfully created meaningful productive relationships and partnerships with students families In Natural Allies the teachers personal narratives are juxtaposed with rich descriptions of their interactions with families and children The book explores how the dimensions of race class culture and family history shape the interactions between teachers and families particularly in schools where teacher parent dynamics may be fraught with distrust or misunderstanding The book demonstrates how commitment to families and community can become a central part of educators development as professionals In addition the research provides new insight and seeks to merge the study of family engagement with the field of culturally relevant and sustaining pedagogies Offered with optimism and urgency Natural Allies addresses an area in which many educators feel ill equipped and unprepared Readers will emerge from a reading of the book with new ideas on family engagement that are grounded in an analysis of the deep contours of the parent teacher relationship
