

PRODUCT DATA

ANTIFREEZE NF

PRODUCT DESCRIPTION

Castrol Antifreeze NF is a fully formulated, corrosion inhibited, ethylene glycol based coolant concentrate. It is a superior, heavy duty diesel and passenger car engine coolant, formulated to provide excellent corrosion protection for modern engine alloys found in radiators, water pumps and cylinder blocks and heads. Castrol Antifreeze NF is a nitrite, phosphate and amine free, fully formulated glycol coolant and has been designed to meet the requirements of the major European engine manufacturers. Castrol Antifreeze NF provides an effective heat transfer medium, withstanding the high temperatures found in modern cooling systems, while also providing antifreeze protection to temperatures of -38°C at 50% w/v.

PRODUCT APPLICATION

Castrol Antifreeze NF has been designed to meet and generally exceed the specification requirements of most major European engine manufacturers and is particularly recommended for use in heavy duty European vehicles. Castrol Antifreeze NF is suitable for engines of both ferrous and aluminium alloy construction and can be used in the cooling systems of cars, light or heavy commercial vehicles, tractors and off-road applications where a high quality nitrite free coolant is called for. The concentration of the engine coolant used should be that recommended by the vehicle manufacturer. In the absence of such guidelines, Castrol Antifreeze NF should be diluted with good quality soft water in the concentration range of 30 – 50% w/v. Distilled, demineralised or deionised water are best and the recommended water to use. Rain water and "soft" water from areas like Melbourne, Sydney and Tasmania are preferred, "hard" high mineral content water should NOT be used.

Provided the glycol content is kept at 50% by volume in either demineralised, distilled or deionised water and the same mix is used for make up purposes, Castrol Antifreeze NF has an expected life of 5 years/5,000 hours/600,000km whichever occurs first, when used in European heavy duty diesel engine applications. In passenger car engines, replace as recommended by the engine manufacturer.
