Induced plant responses to microbes and insects Corné M. J. Pieterse, Marcel Dicke, Saskia C. M. Van Wees, Erik H. Poelman, 2014-04-14 Plants are members of complex communities and interact both with antagonists and beneficial organisms An important question in plant defense signaling research is how plants integrate signals induced by pathogens insect herbivores and beneficial microbes into the most appropriate adaptive response Molecular and genomic tools are now being used to uncover the complexity of the induced defense signaling networks that have evolved during the arms races between plants and the other organisms with which they intimately interact To understand the functioning of the complex defense signaling network in nature molecular biologists and ecologists have joined forces to place molecular mechanisms of induced plant defenses in an ecological perspective In this Research Topic we aim to provide an online open access snapshot of the current state of the art of the field of induced plant responses to microbes and insects with a special focus on the translation of molecular mechanisms to ecology and vice versa
