

Invisible Man Discussion Chapters 16-20

1. The narrator stumbles blindly as he leaves the microphone,
  - just as Reverend Barbee does after his sermon in Chapter 5,
  - and as the prizefighter must have done after his blinding bout in the ring.

Explain what Ellison means by "blindness" in your own words. How could you link it to "isolation"?

2. The narrator calls for an end to the blindness that causes such interracial divisions and urges the formation of a united front.
  - His speech, however, becomes ironic when we learn that he cannot even see his audience.
  - He becomes a blind leader of a blind audience.

How is repetition used to express the change the narrator feels in his identity?

3. Some members of the Brotherhood become dissatisfied with the narrator's speech because of its lack of "scientific" content.

What does this mean? Why would the speech upset them?

4. Although the narrator initially believes that his membership in the Brotherhood has made him into a new person, his nightmares about figures from the past suggest that his past cannot be erased and that it will continue to haunt him.

Analyze how this can impact the narrator's search for identity?

5. How is humor used in the first introduction of Ras the Exhorter? Why would Ellison have him speak the dialect of a native African learning English?
