MotorBoating, 1981-01 Ecocritical Explorations in Literary and Cultural Studies Patrick D. Murphy, 2009-07-15 In Ecocritical Explorations Patrick D Murphy explores environmental literature and environmental cultural issues through both theoretical and applied criticism He engages with the concepts of referentiality simplicity the nation state and virtual reality in the first section of the book and then goes on to interrogate these issues in contemporary environmental literature both American and international He concludes his argument with a discussion of the larger frames of family dynamics and un natural disasters such as hurricanes and global warming ending with a chapter on the integration of scholarship and pedagogy in the classroom with reference to his own teaching experiences Murphy s study provides a wide ranging discussion of contemporary literature and cultural phenomena through the lens of ecological literary criticism giving attention to both theoretical issues and applied critiques In particular he looks at popular literary genres such as mystery and science fiction as well as actual disasters and disaster scenarios Ecocritical Explorations in Literary and Cultural Studies is a timely contribution to ecological literary criticism and an insightful look into how we represent our relationship with the environment Boatman's Handbook Tom Bottomley, 1985 The Atman Project Ken Wilber, 1980 Wilber traces human development from infancy into adulthood and beyond into those states described by mystics and spiritual adepts The spiritual evolution of such extraordinary individuals as the Buddha and Jesus hints at the direction human beings will take in their continuing growth toward transcendence Pacific Fishing, 1985 Dream Trippers David A. Palmer, Elijah Siegler, 2017-11-27 A study of the transnational circulation of Daoism Compelling brilliantly and simply written and will have an important impact not only for those who seek to understand Daoism but more widely for those who think about how contemporary cultures concretely compete to produce religion as an object of interest and study James Miller Queen s University Over the past few decades Daoism has become a recognizable part of Western alternative spiritual life Now that Westernized version of Daoism is going full circle traveling back from America and Europe to influence Daoism in China Dream Trippers draws on more than a decade of ethnographic work with Daoist monks and Western seekers to trace the spread of Westernized Daoism in contemporary China David A Palmer and Elijah Siegler take us into the daily life of the monastic community atop the mountain of Huashan and explore its relationship to the socialist state They follow the international circuit of Daoist energy tourism which connects several sites throughout China and examine the controversies around Western scholars who become practitioners and promoters of Daoism Throughout are lively portrayals of encounters among the book s various characters Chinese hermits and monks Western seekers and scholar practitioners as they interact with each other in obtuse often humorous and yet sometimes enlightening and transformative ways Dream Trippers untangles the anxieties confusions and ambiguities that arise as Chinese and American practitioners balance cosmological attunement and radical spiritual individualism in their search for authenticity in a globalized world A fascinating insightful and at times quite amusing work What makes Dream Trippers especially interesting and valuable is its acute attention to the contradictions and ambiguities of the cross cultural history definition relevance practice and meaning of Daoism as lived today in a hyper materialistic China and in a hyper individualistic United States Norman Girardot Lehigh University
