

Psychology Chapter 3: Biological Foundations of Behavior

Chapter 3.1: The Nervous System

The Nervous System

- The body's electrochemical communication circuitry.
- Neuroscience studies the nervous system
- The human nervous system is made up of billions of communicating nerve cells, it is the most intricately organized aggregate of matter on the planet.

Characteristics of the Nervous System

The brain and nervous system guide our interaction with the world around us, move our body through the world, and direct our adaptation to the environment.

1. Complexity

- The brain and nervous system is complex
- Has billions of nerve cells in the brain which allows us to talk, write, sing, dance and think.
- The nervous system has different levels and many different parts

2. Integration

- Brain is good at gathering information

3. Adaptability

- The brain and nervous system together serve as our agent for adapting to the world
- Nerve cells are constantly adapting to change in the body and the environment
- Plasticity: refers to the brain's special physical capacity for change.

4. Electrochemical Transmission

- The brain and nervous system functions as an information processing system powered by electrical impulse and chemical messengers
- An impulse travels down a nerve cell, or neuron through electrical charges. When that impulse gets to the end of the line, it communicates with the next neuron using chemicals.
- Throughout the nervous system information is conveyed electrically or chemically.

Pathways in the Nervous System

The brain and the nervous system receive and transmit sensory input (sound, smells and flavors) , integrate the information from the environment, and direct the body's motor activities.

- Information flow into the brain through input from our senses
- The brain make sense of that information
- Giving it meaning

Answers to the Labour Question Gary Mucciaroni, 2024-01-31 Since the mid nineteenth century public officials reformers journalists and other elites have referred to the labour question The labour question was rooted in the system of wage labour that spread throughout much of Europe and its colonies and produced contending classes as industrialization unfolded

Answers to the Labour Question explores how the liberal state responded to workers demands that employers recognize trade unions as their legitimate representatives in their struggle for compensation and control over the workplace Gary Mucciaroni examines five Anglophone nations Australia Canada Great Britain New Zealand and the United States whose differences are often overlooked in the literature on political economy which lumps them together as liberal market led economies Despite their many shared characteristics and common historical origins these nations responses to the labour question diverged dramatically Mucciaroni identifies the factors that explain why these nations developed such different industrial relations regimes and how the paths each nation took to the adoption of its regime reflected a different logic of institutional change Drawing on newspaper accounts parliamentary debates and personal memoirs among other sources Answers to the Labour Question aims to understand the variety of state responses to industrial unrest and institutional change beyond the domain of industrial relations
