Chapter 37 - The Cold War Begins 1945-1952

Major Themes

- America emerged from WW II as the world's strongest economic power and started a postwar economic boom that lasted two decades.
- A bulging population migrated to the suburbs and sunbelt leaving cities increasingly to minorities and the poor
- The end of WW II left the US and Soviet Union as the two dominant world powers. They became locked in a Cold War confrontation – a global ideological conflict between democracy and communism.

Major Questions

- Was the primary threat from the Soviet Union a military or an ideological one?
  - The threat from the Soviet Union was more of an ideological threat than a military threat. It was an ideological threat because there really wasn't an actual military conflict between the US and the USSR, like physical combat or other military attacks taken against the United States. There were, however, a lot of threats from either side with a military build-up and an on going arms race to back up the threats.
- Assess the impact of each of these changes in American society: increased affluence, suburban growth, growing women's presence in the workforce, the "baby boom".

Outline

Postwar Economic Anxieties

- Many Americans were still concerned with the Great Depression, and now the relations between them and the Soviets were degrading
  - There were many residual effects of the Depression
    - Increased suicide rate
    - Decreased Marriage/Birth Rates
    - Sexual Depression
- The economy was shaky to start
  - "Gross National Product" (how much the country produces) decreased from Wartime Production
  - Prices rose
  - Strikes rampaged
    - Strikers couldn't afford what they were making because of increased prices.
- Organized Labor had issues with the conservatives
