Diverse Economies and Food Democracy: Implications for Sustainability from an Interdisciplinary Perspective Andreas Exner, Andreas Mayer, Moya Kneafsey, 2025-09-26 In view of the multifaceted challenge of transforming towards inclusive and sustainable food systems scholars have drawn attention to diverse economies of food such as food coops community supported agriculture urban community gardens or fair trade Diverse economies of food have been labeled in various ways The notion of alternative agro food networks AFN has gained the broadest appeal in this regard However this notion and similar ones have been criticized on a conceptual level and the assumption that diverse economies of food may substantially contribute to the sustainable transformation of food systems has been questioned on theoretical methodological and political grounds Although food democracy is recurrently mentioned in relation to diverse economies of food a proper operationalization of this concept is largely missing as well as robust quantifications of the sustainability implications of those By focusing on food democracy as forms of joint decision making by food producers consumers public authorities and stakeholders on various scales diverse economies of food can be clarified conceptually and the environmental impacts quantified as well as trade offs and synergies assessed This allows us to investigate more precisely the possible sustainability and transformative impacts of diverse economies of food
