Marquis Who's Who,Who's Who Marquis,2004-06 A biographical dictionary of notable living women in the United States of America President Kennedy Fights the Cold War Charles River Editors,2014-02-14 Includes pictures Includes quotes from participants including declassified CIA files Includes footnotes and a bibliography for further reading Within just a month of becoming President the issue of communist Cuba became central to John F Kennedy and his administration On February 3rd 1961 President Kennedy called for a plan to support Cuban refugees in the U S and a month later he created the Peace Corps a program that trained young American volunteers to help with economic and community development in poor countries Both programs were integral pieces of the Cold War and were attempts to align disadvantaged groups abroad with the United State and the West against the Soviet Union and its Communist satellites Meanwhile covert operations were laying the groundwork for overthrowing Cuban leader Fidel Castro and he knew it Castro railed against CIA involvement among Cubans trying to overthrow him and his still young revolution Matters came to a head that April when the Kennedy Administration moved beyond soft measures to direct action From April 17 20 1 400 CIA trained Cuban exiles landed on the beaches of Western Cuba in an attempt to overthrow Castro This plan known as the Bay of Pigs had been originally drafted by the Eisenhower Administration The exiles landed in Cuba and were expected to be greeted by anti Castro forces within the country after which the U S would provide air reinforcement to the rebels and the Castro regime would slowly be overthrown Soviet leader Nikita Khrushchev s belief that he could push the inexperienced American leader around grew in the wake of the Bay of Pigs fiasco and the inconclusive Vienna summit in June 1961 that left Kennedy complaining to his brother Bobby that Khrushchev was like dealing with Dad All give and no take Motivated by the events of the previous year 1962 saw Khrushchev made his most decisive decision Still questioning Kennedy's resolve and attempting to placate the concerns of Cuban leader Fidel Castro following the failed Bay of Pigs invasion Khrushchev attempted to place medium range nuclear missiles in Cuba just 90 miles off the coast of the United States Though Castro warned him that the act would seem like an act of aggression to the Americans Khrushchev insisted on moving the missiles in quietly under the cover of darkness These missiles could serve not only as a deterrent against any invasion of Cuba but also as the ultimate first strike capability in the event of a nuclear war However in October 1962 American spy planes discovered the Soviets were building nuclear missile sites in Cuba and intelligence officials informed Kennedy of this on October 16th It went without saying that nuclear missile sites located just miles off the coast of the American mainland posed a grave threat to the country especially because missiles launched from Cuba would reach their targets in mere minutes That would throw off important military balances in nuclear arms and locations that had previously ensured the Cold War stayed cold Almost all senior American political figures agreed that the sites were offensive and needed to be removed but how Ultimately some of the biggest arguments during the crisis took place among members of the Kennedy administration and the military Members of the U S Air Force wanted to take out the sites with bombing missions and launch a full scale invasion of Cuba but Kennedy and his brother feared that military action could ignite a full scale escalation leading to nuclear war Though he had previously taken aggressive stances on Cuba Bobby was one of the voices who opposed outright war and helped craft the eventual plan a blockade of Cuba That was the decision President Kennedy ultimately reached as well but it remained to be seen whether Khrushchev would test Kennedy's resolve yet again

The Kennedy Tapes Ernest R. May, Philip Zelikow, 1997 October 1962 the United States and the Soviet Union stood eyeball to eyeball each brandishing enough nuclear weapons to obliterate civilization in the Northern Hemisphere It was one of the most dangerous moments in world history Day by day for two weeks the inner circle of President Kennedy's National Security Council debated what to do twice coming to the brink of attacking Soviet military units in Cuba units equipped for nuclear retaliation And through it all unbeknownst to any of the participants except the President himself tape was rolling capturing for posterity the deliberations that might have ended the world as we know it These are the full and authenticated transcripts of those audio recordings Arguably the most important document in the history of the Cuban missile crisis these transcripts are also a unique window on a drama rarely if ever witnessed by those outside the halls of power the moment by moment decisionmaking of those with the fate of the West in their hands in a constantly changing world threatening situation At the center of it all is President Kennedy wary of experts after the debacle of the Bay of Pigs puzzled and distrustful after confrontations with Khrushchev in Vienna and Berlin and ever mindful of the responsibility symbolized by the satchel his military aides hold nearby containing the codes to unleash nuclear warfare In one brief segment midway through the crisis the President alone speaks his thoughts into the machine In others he copes with hawks from Capitol Hill and the Pentagon And in the last meeting we hear him explaining and defending the formula that finally defused the crisis With him throughout are his team from the State Department including Secretary Dean Rusk Under Secretary George Ball and Llewellyn Thompson his Defense team especially Robert McNamara his key assistants Theodore Sorenson and McGeorge Bundy Secretary of the Treasury Douglas Dillon Vice President Lyndon Johnson and of course his brother Robert the Attorney General All are identified and put into their proper context by the editors whose introduction makes sense of this singular drama within the history of the Cold War and the Kennedy administration and whose conclusions will shape our understanding of the Cold War

The Cuban Missile Crisis: The Cold War Goes Hot Jim Whiting, 2020-02-04 The United States and the Soviet Union were two of the nations that defeated Nazi Germany in World War II Yet their systems of government were completely different These differences soon developed into the Cold War Both sides became bitter enemies But there was no actual fighting That situation nearly changed in 1961 The Soviets secretly installed missiles with nuclear warheads in Cuba These missiles could reach many cities in the United States When President John F Kennedy learned about these weapons he confronted Soviet premier Nikita Khrushchev The world teetered on the brink of a nuclear war This is the story of that chilling event

High Noon in the Cold War Max Frankel, 2004 One of the giants of American journalism now re creates an unforgettable time in which the whole world feared extinction High Noon in the Cold War captures the Cuban Missile Crisis in a new light from inside the hearts and minds of the famous men who provoked and in the nick of time resolved the confrontation Using his personal memories of covering the conflict and gathering evidence from recent records and new scholarship and testimony Max Frankel corrects widely held misconceptions about the game of nuclear chicken played by John Kennedy and Nikita Khrushchev in October 1962 when Soviet missiles were secretly planted in Cuba and aimed at the United States High Noon in the Cold War portrays an embattled young American president not jaunty and callow as widely believed but increasingly calm and statesmanlike and a Russian ruler who was not only a wily old peasant but an insecure belligerent desperate to achieve credibility Here too are forgotten heroes like John McCone the conservative Republican CIA head whose intuition made him a crucial figure in White House debates In detailing the disastrous miscalculations of the two superpowers the United States thought the Soviets would never deploy missiles to Cuba the Soviets thought the United States would have to acquiesce and how Kennedy and Khrushchev beat back hotheads in their own councils this fascinating book written by a master reporter chronicles the whole story of the scariest encounter of the Cold War
