Research Dept., 2010-03-26 Do highly indebted countries suffer from a debt overhang Can debt relief foster their growth rates To answer these important questions this article looks at how the debt growth relation varies with indebtedness levels as well as with the quality of policies and institutions in a panel of developing countries The main findings are that in countries with good policies and institutions there is evidence of debt overhang when the net present value of debt rises above 20 25 percent of GDP however debt becomes irrelevant above 70 80 percent In countries with bad policies and institutions thresholds appear to be lower but the evidence of debt overhang is weaker and we cannot rule out that debt is always irrelevant Indeed in such countries as well as in countries with high indebtedness levels investment does not depend on debt levels The analysis suggests that not all countries are likely to profit from debt relief and thus that a one size fits all debt relief approach might not be the most appropriate one Pulp and Paper Magazine of Canada, 1919 A Guide for Collaborators in the Preparation of Abstracts for Botanical Abstracts Botanical Abstracts, Inc.
