Heng, Tai-Wei Lim, 2009 The current financial crisis provides a valuable occasion for the world to re-examine the grand statements of wisdom which dominate the financial world for a long time. The impact is extremely serious as a result of the convergence of a number of factors such as huge current account deficits of the United States, globalization, deregulation, loose monetary policy, and excessive liquidity. This book seeks to address the critical issues in deregulation, derivatives, leveraging, remuneration systems, and rating agencies. This book will also examine Asia's response and why Asian economies have been less affected by the global financial crisis. Are corporate governance, culture, management styles, or even a state-led model the main reasons? Would the Asian sovereign funds help to be the last line of defense against the excesses of the crisis? Is the US $80 billion Asian crisis fund envisaged as the first instance of a coordinated East Asian response to the crisis, and would this truly underpin the creation of an East Asian regional order? Despite this strong level of interest, however, there are few studies that aim to comprehensively address the issue from multiple perspectives.
