

Gravitational Fields (GFCs): Gravitational Acceleration

Note that Newton's law of gravitation is the gravitational force exerted on you by the planet you're standing on, usually the Earth. The quantity is a force exerted by attraction, which allows you (and you and the Earth, in this context) to say that the gravitational force is contained in the GFCs and will learn about other influences that originate from gravitational force.

Newton's Law of Universal Gravitation

All masses in the universe are attracted to each other by a gravitational force, called F_g , which depends on the mass of the objects and the distance between them. This relationship is summarized by the equation:

$$F_g = G \frac{m_1 m_2}{r^2}$$

The gravitational force between the two masses is attractive, just like this.

The magnitude of the gravitational force F_g between two masses is directly proportional to the product of the masses m_1 and m_2 and inversely proportional to the square of the distance r between the masses. This relationship is summarized by the equation:

$$F_g \propto \frac{m_1 m_2}{r^2}$$

G is a constant of proportionality called the Gravitational Constant, equal to $6.67 \times 10^{-11} \text{ N m}^2/\text{kg}^2$. This equation is known as Newton's Law of Universal Gravitation. It was discovered by the English astronomer who gave us our primary astronomical system.

1. The gravitational force F_g between two masses m_1 and m_2 is directly proportional to the

$$F_g = G \frac{m_1 m_2}{r^2}$$

(A) product of the masses m_1 and m_2 and inversely proportional to the square of the distance r between them.

(B) distance r between the masses m_1 and m_2 and directly proportional to the product of the masses m_1 and m_2 .

(C) distance r between the masses m_1 and m_2 and directly proportional to the product of the masses m_1 and m_2 .
