Postcolonialism Tariq Jazeel, 2019-02-22 Postcolonialism is a book that examines the influence of postcolonial theory in critical geographical thought and scholarship Aimed at advanced level students and researchers the book is a lively stimulating and relevant introduction to postcolonial geography that elaborates on the critical interventions in social cultural and political life this important subfield is poised to make The book is structured around three intersecting parts Spaces Identity hybridity Knowledge that broadly follow the trajectory of postcolonial studies since the late 1970s It comprises ten main chapters each of which is situated at the intersections of postcolonialism and critical human geography In doing so Postcolonialism develops three key arguments First that postcolonialism is best conceived as an intellectually creative and practical set of methodologies or approaches for critically engaging existing manifestations of power and exclusion in everyday life and in taken as given spaces Second that postcolonialism is at its core concerned with the politics of representation both in terms of how people and space are represented but also the politics surrounding who is able to represent themselves and on what whose terms Third the book argues that postcolonialism itself is an inherently geographical intellectual enterprise despite its origins in literary theory In developing these arguments and addressing a series of relevant and international case studies and examples throughout Postcolonialism not only demonstrates the importance of postcolonial theory to the contemporary critical geographical imagination It also argues that geographers have much to offer to continued theorizations and workings of postcolonial theory politics and intellectual debates going forward This is a book that brings critical analyses of the continued and omnipresent legacies of colonialism and imperialism to the heart of human geography but also one that returns an avowedly critical geographical disposition to the core of interdisciplinary postcolonial studies

Theoretical Nursing Afaf Ibrahim Meleis,2011 An additional assumption was that the processes for theory development were new to nursing and hence nurses in graduate programs learned strategies for advancing knowledge from other disciplines This assumption was debunked with the knowledge that nurses were always engaged in knowledge development driven by their experiences in clinical practice Because of these assumptions most of the early writing about theory development was about outlining strategies that should be used rather than strategies that have already been used in the discipline to develop theories Theorists themselves did not uncover or adequately discuss ways by which they developed their theories therefore the tendency was to describe processes that were based on theories developed in other disciplines mainly the physical and social sciences And an implicit assumption was made that there should be a single strategy for theory development some claiming to begin the process from practice and others believing it should be driven by research Provided by publisher

Development Methods and Approaches Critical Reflections ,2003 Many aid agencies advocate approaches to development which are people centred participatory empowering and gender fair This volume of essays explores some of the middle ground between such values based approaches and the methods and techniques that the agencies adopt The selection offers critical assessments of fashionable tools such as Participatory Rural Appraisal and Logical Framework It demonstrates how these are linked conceptually and in practice to the wider ideological environment in which they are used and shows how they depend upon the skills of the fieldworker and or organization applying them Contributors argue that tools and methods will contribute to a values based approach only if those using them have a serious commitment to a social agenda which is genuinely transformative
