

Commentary: The Catcher in the Rye

Patricia Lagares Guerrier.

The Catcher in the Rye is a novel written by J. D. Salinger, first published in 1951. This fictional novel is considered a realistic or coming-of-age one because it deals with the transition of growing up to become an adult. The first excerpt, which is located on Chapter 3, page 12, is one of the most relevant parts of the story because it reveals the moment when Holden is showing to his roommate Ackley his red hunting hat, and Ackley disapproves it saying "That's a deer shooting hat" (line 2). In this conversation... The second excerpt, located in chapter 17, page 70, is going to show how disgusted is Holden with social "cliques"(line 5), but also with society, education and how it works because it is "full of phonies" (line 1). This emotion is going to make into Holden Caulfield the necessity to stay things the way they are (excerpt 5, line 1), as it can be seen in the excerpts 3 (located in chapter 22, page 93), 4 (located in chapter 16, page 65) and 5 (located in chapter 16, page 66).

The main themes presented in those excerpts are mainly the rejection of coming-of-age, the phoniness of the adult world (hypocrisy, superficiality, etc) wakes in Holden the need to isolate/loneliness himself from the world around him → innocence vs. Corruption (society, excerpt 2), the painfulness of growing up

Narrative techniques and style: According to the second excerpt, it can be seen the pessimistic point of view of Holden on how he describes people as "phonies" (line 1), but also the pessimistic tone in which he makes a critique of corruption in society: "all you do is talk about girls and liquor and sex all day" (line 4). The dialect presented in the novel is the one of a teenage boy, making controversy over the book for its rude or not polite language employed as seen in excerpt 1, line 2: "for Chrissake", "This is a people shooting hat" (line 4, excerpt 1). Another crucial narrative technique is the identity crisis that the red hat on the first excerpt makes on the character of Holden to advertise his uniqueness, individuality, and difference himself from society, but also represents self-protection because when Holden wears up, he seems to be more confident talking and secure, using sarcastic language to make fun of the moment: "I shot people in this hat" (line 4).
