The role of parent-child interactions in developmental psychopathology: methodological and intervention challenges and opportunities, Rebecca Pearson, Tamsen Jean Rochat, Bronwyne Coetzee, 2025-03-06 Parenting research has always faced substantial methodological challenges, assumptions, and stigma, limiting understanding and translation to more family-centred support. In addition, the focus of most research has focused on the early years, with far less knowledge about the role of parents in pre-adolescence, adolescence, and the transition to adulthood or beyond. Parenting work lacks diversity with regards to inclusion across cultural settings and is usually limited to mothers; the role of fathers, grandparents, adoptive and foster parents, and step parents is under-represented. Current advancements in technology and data science, as well as cross-cohort collaboration, enabling pooling of observed parent-offspring interaction in larger numbers, provides opportunities to bring together new understanding. In addition, enabling the voice of diverse parents with lived experience throughout the research process will enhance the meaning and interpretation of findings.
