2015 Question Paper For Life Orientation

Nora Rubel, Brett Kruttsch

2015 Question Paper For Life Orientation:

Gender and Young People's Digital Sexual Cultures Deevia Bhana, 2025-08-13 This volume focuses on the role of gender in young people's digital sexual cultures in South Africa. Offering a snapshot of their lives as they navigate the online world, this book explores young people's heterosexual desires and the materialisation of gender inequalities. The chapters in the book take heed of human and more than human elements and understand the connection between devices, technologies, images, sexting, filters, pornography, sexuality, and violence as affective flows with potential for new becomings and new constraints. Chapters also detail how these experiences are woven with global and local norms regarding heterosexuality, masculinity, and femininity, shaping young people's web surfing experiences amid pleasure and peril. Chapter 1 is available open access under a Creative Commons Attribution 4.0 International License via link.springer.com.

Moral and Spiritual Leadership in an Age of Plural Moralities Hans Alma, Ina ter Avest, 2019-01-17 In crisis situations such as terror attacks or societal tensions caused by migration, people tend to look for explicit moral and spiritual leadership and are often inclined to vote for so-called strong leaders. Is there a way to resist the temptation of the simplistic solutions that these strong leaders offer and instead encourage constructive engagement with the complex demands of our times? This volume utilises relational and dialogical perspectives to examine and address many of the issues surrounding the moral and spiritual guidance articulated in globalizing Western societies. The essays in this collection focus on the concept of plural moralities understood as divergent visions on what is a good life, both in an ethical, aesthetic, existential, and spiritual sense. They explore the political, cultural context and consequences of plural moralities, as well as discussing challenges, possibilities, risks, and dangers from the perspective of two promising relational theories: social constructionism and dialogical self theory. The overarching argument is that it is possible to constructively put in nuanced moral and spiritual guidance into complex plural societies. By choosing a clear theoretical focus on relational approaches to societal challenges, this interdisciplinary book provides both a broad scope and a coherent argument. It will be of great interest to scholars of social and political psychology, leadership, and organization, religious studies, and pedagogy.

The technical concept of social space orientation as a perspective for social work with older people Kim Liss, 2024-05-15 Seminar paper from the year 2018 in the subject Social Work, grade 1.0, University of Duisburg-Essen, Soziale Arbeit course, Konzepte sozialraumorientierter Arbeit, language English, abstract. This text was translated with the help of AI and reviewed by the GRIN editorial team. The aim of this paper is to emphasise the changes and significance of the ageing phase of life and to present the specialist concept of social space orientation as an enriching perspective for social work with older people. By way of introduction, the concept of social space orientation will be presented in general terms. Particular attention will be paid to the definition of social space and the explanation of the concept itself. In order to provide as comprehensive an understanding of the concept as possible, the five basic principles of social space orientation are differentiated and declared separately. The following section then deals with the general phase of life of old age and its categorisation in the context of demographic change In addition various images of old age are presented in summarised form in order to illustrate the heterogeneity and diversity of old age This is linked to the connection between social space orientation and the ageing phase of life To this end some of the advantages and perspectives of anchoring social space orientation in work with older people are emphasised in advance In order to both substantiate and further deepen this the paper goes into more detail below on the social space of older people which also emphasises the heterogeneity of old age described above The paper then goes on to look more specifically at the conceptual realisation and design of the concept of social space orientation in relation to the requirements and needs of the older population This makes it possible to draw a conclusive meaningful conclusion about the relevance and prospects of the concept of social space orientation for the ageing phase of life To this end this conclusion summarises the content and arguments previously identified and links them together This is followed by a concluding assessment and a summary of the previously discussed significance of merging social space orientation with social work with older people
