From Behaving to Belonging Julie Causton,Kate MacLeod,2020-07-24 Challenging behavior is one of the most significant issues educators face Though it may seem radical to use words like love compassion and heart when we talk about behavior and discipline the compassionate and heartfelt words actions and strategies teachers employ in the classroom directly shape who students are and who they will become But how can teaching from the heart translate into effective supports and practices for students who exhibit challenging behavior In From Behaving to Belonging Julie Causton and Kate MacLeod detail how teachers can shift from a behavior management mindset that punishes students for bad behavior or rewards students for good or compliant behavior to an approach that supports all students even the most challenging ones with kindness creativity acceptance and love Causton and MacLeod s approach Focuses on students strengths gifts and talents Ignites students creativity and sense of self worth Ensures that students social emotional and academic needs are met Prompts teachers to rethink challenging behavior and how they support their students Helps teachers identify barriers to student success in the cultural social and environmental landscape Inspires teachers to reconnect with their core values and beliefs about students and teaching We need to transform our classrooms into places of love To that end this book represents a paradigm shift from a punitive mindset to a strengths based loving approach and encourages the radical act of creating more inclusive and caring schools

Policy, Experience and Change: Cross-Cultural Reflections on Inclusive Education Len Barton,Felicity Armstrong,2007-02-08 One of the qualities of this book is the authors engagement with personal experience This is part of the contextualising of issues within particular cultural historical and social contexts I shall begin the Foreword in the same spirit by recounting an experience that is still a foundation for analysing and developing my own understanding This happened some twenty five years ago I was going with Vic Finkelstein a disabled academic and activist to a seminar on a hot summer s day making our way across the Open University campus in Milton Keynes The seminar was entitled The Problems of Integration Making conversation with Vic I suggested that the seminar sounded interesting His response was immediate and direct no it was not interesting the problems for disabled people were the problems of segregation not the problems of integration As he did often for me Vic turned understanding on its head and his seemingly simple observation carried ever increasing ripples of critical questioning Reading of international developments and of the specifics of education policy provision and practice across the widely differing circumstances found in different nation states from the majority as well as the minority world challenges deepens and confirms understanding There are not surprisingly considerable diversities and commonalities and recurring themes that speak to both and fire critical questioning The complexities pretty quickly give food for thought and ring bells of caution The first for me is the lack of digestion the impossibility of comprehensive knowledge
