

Accelerated Biology Chapter 1 Study Guide

1. Describe seven properties common to all life.

Order- the highly organized structure that typifies life, complex internal organization

Regulation- an ability to maintain the organism's internal environment within limits that sustain life; homeostasis

Growth and development - consistent growth and development pattern controlled by inherited DNA

Energy processing - the use of chemical energy to power an organism's activities and chemical reactions; taking in energy and using it

Response to environment - an ability to react to environmental stimuli

Reproduction - the ability of organisms to reproduce new individuals of their own kind

Evolutionary adaptation - adaptations evolve over many generations, as individuals with traits best suited to their environments have greater reproductive success and pass their traits to offspring

2. Describe the levels of biological organization from molecules to the biosphere, noting the interrelationships between levels.

Molecules- small chemical units (atoms) bonded together

Organelle- membrane-bound structures working together for a particular function in a cell

Cells- molecules and organelles working together; cells are the basic unit of life

Tissue- groups of similar cells working together for the same function

Organ- tissues working together for a larger specialized function

Organ System- several organs with a similar/shared function or steps in a process (like digestion)

Organism- one individual living thing (plant, animal, fungus, protist or bacterium)

Population- one particular group of organisms of the same species that can interbreed

Community- all of the organisms (of all species) living in a particular area

Ecosystem- living organisms and nonliving materials (rock, soil, air, water) in a particular area

Biosphere- all environments on earth that support life

▮ As you move up in levels, there are new properties that arise (emergent)

▮ Increasing in complexity (molecule → biosphere)

3. Define the concept of emergent properties and describe an example of it.

Multiple parts working together to create a new function. New properties that arise at each larger level of organization. A cell performs complex functions that individual organelles cannot.

Example: Organelle → Cell (cell is living and organelle is not)

4. Explain why cells are a special level in biological organization. Compare prokaryotic and eukaryotic cells.
