

Student Exploration: Half-life

Introduction: In this exploration, you will learn about half-life, a concept that is used to describe the rate at which a substance decays. You will explore how the half-life of a substance is related to its decay constant and how to calculate the half-life of a substance given its decay constant.

Problem: A substance has a half-life of 10 years. How much of the substance will remain after 30 years?

Information: The half-life of a substance is the time it takes for half of the substance to decay.

Question: How much of the substance will remain after 30 years?

Answer: After 30 years, only 1/8 of the substance will remain. This is because the substance has a half-life of 10 years, so after 10 years, only 1/2 of the substance remains. After 20 years, only 1/4 of the substance remains. After 30 years, only 1/8 of the substance remains.
