Howell, Margaret T. Deiotte, Sandra L. Patton, 2008 This guide drills deep to deliver the nuts and bolts of RTI Clear examples of effective implementation include systems and checklists to assess RTI progress Learn specific strategies for realigning your school system Respond to the needs of struggling students by building pyramids of intervention solving problems in collaborative teams monitoring student progress through data and employing customized solutions to help every unique learner succeed Prediction of Student Achievement on Missouri Assessment Program be Predicted from Aimsweb MAZE Scores? Jammi Daise, 2014 The research was completed to see if the time spent raising test scores on the MAZE assessment from Aimsweb was worth the effort when trying to raise student achievement scores on the Missouri MAP test When trying to meet AYP for a school building and a district in order to keep and receive state accreditation schools spend a lot of time and money on programs and resources that will best help their students The Aimsweb MAZE assessment is said to determine student comprehension but this study looked to see if those test scores had any correlation to predicting what students would achieve on the Missouri MAP A single step regression analysis on Aimsweb MAZE scores and MAP scores This study found that in one Missouri Elementary school fourth grade over a three year span the Aimsweb MAZE results did in fact predict MAP achievement scores Students who met the benchmark goals on the MAZE scored well on the MAP Predicting Math Achievement Using the SMALSI as a Measure of Motivation and Learning and Study Strategy Use David Andrew Kahn, 2012 The purpose of this study was to evaluate the School Motivation and Learning Strategies Inventory SMALSI and the AIMSweb Math Winter Benchmarks to determine if they could be used by school personnel to identify students at risk of low performance in mathematics Previous research shows strategy use enhances math achievement and math fluency predicts math achievement It was thought that if scores on the SMALSI and AIMSweb Math Winter Benchmarks were found to correlate to scores on the math subtests of the

Woodcock Johnson Tests of Achievement WJ III and the TAKS Math Test then this would provide evidence for using the SMALSI and AIMSweb Benchmarks for identifying students at risk of learning problems in mathematics Participants n 176 completed the AIMSweb Math Winter Benchmarks the SMALSI the math subtests of the WJ III and the TAKS Math Test None of the scales of the SMALSI were statistically significant predictors of the variance in performance on the WJ III when used individually The Writing Research Skills scale explained the most variance as an individual predictor When all nine scales were used as predictors they explained a statistically significant portion of the variance on the WJ III with the Reading Comprehension Strategies scale being the most significant predictor The level of learning and study strategy use predicted more of the variance in performance on the WJ III for students in Fifth Grade than for students in Third and Fourth Grade even though the level of strategy use remained the same across the three grade levels In general females reported using more learning and study strategies and more anxiety during test taking situations while males reported lower academic motivation and more attention concentration difficulties Finally the AIMSweb Math Winter Benchmarks explained a statistically significant portion of the variance in performance on the WJ III and the TAKS Math Test Based on these results the SMALSI would be a useful screening tool for identifying students who require explicit instruction of learning and study strategies designed to enhance math achievement and the AIMSweb Math Winter Benchmarks would be a useful screening tool for identifying students at risk of academic difficulties in mathematics
