Part 2 – Crossword

Part 3 – Responses

Response 1

- 1. What is the time and place of the book? What evidence in the book tells you this?

The Amobi's house is located in Fairview, Connecticut. Her house is a setting for most of the book because she study's most of her evidence there when solving a murder. The woods outside are also a really big setting because that's where the murder took place and Pip and Ravi often go there to discuss the murder.

In the April of 2012, Andie Bells died. Five years after that Pip (Pippa) decided to do a school project on her murder.

- 2. Name and describe a secondary character. Describe her/him physically and describe her/his personality and history, if known. Explain how s/he is important to the story and the ideas of the book.

Ravi Singh is Pip's partner in solving the case. He is also Sal Singh's brother (The person who allegedly killed Andie Bell). Pip can't come to the conclusion that Sal killed Andie, so she goes to the Singh's house to ask him a few questions. Throughout the book Pip and Ravi became steadfast friends and partners in solving the case. Ravi belongs to a brown family, is tall, and has brown hair, which he scratches whenever he's nervous. He is kind and caring, and is willing to do anything for the people he loves. Throughout the book Ravi protects and helps Pippa when shes working on the murder case.

Response 2

- 1. Is the book written in the first or third person (I or s/he)? How does that affect the story?

A Good Girls Guide To Murder is written in third person point of view(the,he,them), but along the book we see pages of Pip's research which is written by her in first-person point of view. The third-person point of view affects the story because we don't get to learn about the character's thoughts as much. Even though the narrator told us about Pip's thoughts, we would have a better understanding if it was first-person. In third person we get to see real reactions of the other people in the book, whereas in first-person the reader would only see what the narrator sees. In this book third-person helps the reader analyse the crime, without anyone else's opinion.

The other part of the book which is Pip's research is written in first-person point of view. This helps the reader see the conclusions Pip made and what's going on in her mind at the moment. In every chapter Pip winds up and writes about her thoughts on the new clues.
