the European Semi-Periphery Monika Murzyn-Kupisz, 2026-01-01 Sustainability in fashion production and consumption is considered a major contemporary challenge and at the same time a visible trend in the fashion market. Despite a growing body of academic literature on the topic, detailed analyses have so far mainly pertained to only a selected dimension of the fashion market: design, production, retail, or consumption. They have more often explored major fashion centres, brands, and firms rather than independent designers, SMEs, or independent fashion events and other alternative consumption means and spaces or less obvious intermediaries in the fashion market. Although the issue of sustainable fashion has been noticed in the academic discourse in Poland, it is yet to be examined, bringing together the production and consumption side of the issue. Nor has the spatial dimension of fashion market transformation in Poland been analysed in detail. Taking a geographic perspective, this book fills this research gap by presenting a holistic approach to the fashion market, including design, production, and consumption of fashion, considering the social, cultural, and spatial dimensions of the matter and diverse stakeholders who participate in it. Providing a comprehensive analysis of long-term changes in the Polish fashion market, the book addresses several interesting issues. These include the extent to which the sustainable reorientation of the fashion market accompanies the broader processes of adaptation, restructuring, and upgrading of the textile and clothing sector; how it fits into the broader logic of culturalisation of clothing production and commercialisation of design as an applied artistic genre and a part of the creative sector; and to what extent it is connected with new alternative consumption patterns with respect to channels, places, and spaces of clothing purchases and re-use. The main premise of the book is that although it is still a relatively small part of the fashion market in Poland, sustainable fashion design, production, and consumption is an increasingly important phenomenon with significant social, economic, and spatial implications. The book therefore argues that sustainable design and production constitute a promising opportunity for adaptation, restructuring, and upgrading of the textile and clothing sector in the European semi-periphery. Using the metaphor of the fashion ecosystem, it also illustrates how sustainable fashion practices contribute to the creation of new links and networks within the fashion industry alongside a more fragmented domestic production structure. Fashion Today is a kaleidoscopic, colorful, and provocative survey of the fashion world from the introduction of Dior's New

Look in 1947 to the present day The book is a thematic overview of fashion in its widest sense imaginable ranging from haute couture to street style from the one off to the mass market to the pret a porter It illustrates with elegance and flair just how vital and everlasting a part fashion has played in reflecting and influencing twentieth century attitudes from the sexual revolution and rise of popular culture in the 1960s to the consumerism of the 1980s and 1990s Fashion Today places current fashion not only in the contexts of youth sexuality fetishism exoticism and historicism but also in the contexts of previous fashion movements it demonstrates dynamically that fashion reflects not only its surroundings and its subjects but ultimately itself Aesthetically and intellectually stimulating this volume is a must have for anyone who has even the vaguest interest in any aspect of the fashion world today Its breadth of scope and depth of insight are unprecedented
