EMERGENCY MEDICAL SERVICES (EMS) AND PUBLIC SAFETY TRAINING

EKG Anatomy

WAVE - The P wave represents the electrical activity that starts the heart's contraction. It is a small, rounded wave that precedes the QRS complex. The QRS complex represents the electrical activity that causes the ventricles to contract. It is a large, sharp wave that follows the P wave. The T wave represents the electrical activity that occurs as the ventricles relax. It is a smaller, rounded wave that follows the QRS complex.

EKG Rhythms

- Normal Sinus Rhythm - The heart's natural pacemaker, the sinoatrial (SA) node, sends out regular electrical impulses that cause the heart to beat. The rhythm is regular, with a rate between 60 and 100 beats per minute.
- Sinus Bradycardia - The heart rate is slower than normal, usually below 60 beats per minute. This can be a normal finding in athletes or people who are resting.
- Sinus Tachycardia - The heart rate is faster than normal, usually above 100 beats per minute. This can be caused by exercise, stress, or fever.
- Sinus Arrest - The SA node temporarily stops sending out electrical impulses, causing a pause in the heart's rhythm.
- First Degree AV Block - The electrical impulses from the SA node take longer than normal to reach the ventricles, causing a delay between the P wave and the QRS complex.
- Second Degree AV Block - Some electrical impulses from the SA node are blocked, causing a dropped QRS complex.
- Third Degree AV Block - The electrical impulses from the SA node and the ventricles are completely independent of each other, causing a complete dissociation between the P waves and the QRS complexes.
- Bundle Branch Block - The electrical impulses are blocked in one of the bundle branches, causing a characteristic widening of the QRS complex.
- Myocardial Infarction (MI) - A heart attack can cause changes in the EKG, including ST segment elevation or depression and T wave inversion.
- Pre-excitation Syndromes - These conditions cause the electrical impulses to reach the ventricles earlier than normal, resulting in a shortened PR interval.
- Supraventricular Tachycardia (SVT) - A rapid heart rate that originates in the upper chambers of the heart (atria).
- Ventricular Tachycardia (VT) - A rapid heart rate that originates in the lower chambers of the heart (ventricles).
- Ventricular Fibrillation (VF) - A chaotic and irregular heart rhythm that can be fatal if not treated immediately.
- Asystole - A flat line on the EKG, indicating a complete absence of electrical activity.

Electrical Therapy Basics

- Defibrillation - The process of delivering a high-energy electrical shock to the heart to restore a normal rhythm. It is used for ventricular fibrillation and pulseless ventricular tachycardia.
- Synchronized Cardioversion - The process of delivering a lower-energy electrical shock to the heart, synchronized with the R wave of the QRS complex. It is used for atrial fibrillation, atrial flutter, and supraventricular tachycardia.
- Transcutaneous Pacing - The process of delivering a low-energy electrical current through the skin to stimulate the heart and maintain a regular rhythm. It is used for symptomatic bradycardia.

Airway Management

- Basic Airway Management - Includes techniques such as head-tilt/chin-lift, jaw-thrust, and the use of oral and nasal airways.
- Advanced Airway Management - Includes techniques such as endotracheal intubation, supraglottic airway devices, and cricoid pressure.

Post-Resuscitation Care

- Follow the ABCs - Airway, Breathing, and Circulation are the priorities for post-resuscitation care.
- Temperature Management - Active warming is essential to prevent hypothermia, which can impair coagulation and increase the risk of bleeding.
- Fluid Management - Careful monitoring of fluid balance is necessary to avoid fluid overload and pulmonary edema.
- Organ Protection - Measures such as normotension and normoxia are important to protect the brain and other organs.

Acute Coronary Syndromes (ACS)

- Unstable Angina - Chest pain that is not relieved by rest or nitroglycerin, indicating a partial blockage of a coronary artery.
- ST-Segment Elevation MI (STEMI) - A heart attack characterized by a significant elevation of the ST segment on the EKG. Immediate reperfusion therapy is required.
- Non-ST-Segment Elevation MI (NSTEMI) - A heart attack characterized by ST-segment depression or T-wave inversion on the EKG. Prompt treatment is also needed.

Stroke Assessment and Treatment

- Stroke Assessment - Includes the use of tools like the Cincinnati Prehospital Stroke Scale (CPSS) to identify stroke signs.
- CPSS - A simple, rapid assessment tool for stroke, consisting of three items: arm drift, face smile, and speech.
- Stroke Treatment - Includes the administration of aspirin for ischemic stroke and tPA for eligible patients.

Code Termination

- Consult with Medical Director Before Code Termination - Always follow local protocols and seek guidance from the medical director.
- Recognize Signs of Death - Unresponsive, no breathing, and no pulse are signs of death.
- Respect the Family - Provide emotional support and information to the family during the process.
