Kristine Blair, Radhika Gajjala, Christine Tulley, 2009 This is the first book collection to devote itself exclusively to issues related to women's lives in a culture of technology. As such, it is a key addition to feminist new media scholarship in computers and composition. The book holds special appeal as the editors have put into conversation chapters of authors from diverse disciplines. The value that is placed on cross-disciplinary work is further demonstrated in the mix of theoretical, pedagogical, and rhetorical research that enriches the book in its entirety. To explore the variety of cyberfeminist webs, the collection has been organized around three themes. Chapters in Forming Virtual Kinships examine cyberfeminist practices that do not neatly operate in standard academic communities such as classrooms or cultural centers, instead foregrounding the extent to which female communities evolve around aspects of women's daily lives as mothers, consumers, and workers. Chapters in Redrawing Academic Boundaries offer a glimpse of practice within more defined pedagogical spaces, providing a sense of the ways in which classroom and community network boundaries are often blurred and disrupted. Last, the text moves to explore how cyberfeminist webs, both on and beyond the borders of standard spaces, are developed using a variety of theoretical standpoints.

Beyond Design, 2nd Edition Sandra J. Keiser, Myrna B. Garner, 2007-08-06 This practical text takes students step by step through the preproduction processes of apparel product development: planning, forecasting, fabricating, developing silhouettes and specifications, pricing, and sourcing. It demonstrates how these processes must be coordinated to get the right product to retail when customers want it and at a price they are willing to pay. Based on consultations with some of the most successful and innovative firms in the fashion business, the text covers the evolving partnerships among textile suppliers, product developers, manufacturers, and retailers as they work to develop apparel products in today's customer-driven environment. New to this edition: Increased number of case studies and sidebars; International examples and case studies address the effects of globalization; More information on menswear, children's wear, and special size markets; Updated tables and statistical information and new photo examples; Discussion of technological advancements related to product development; Appendix describing careers in product development and resources for additional research; The context of a global agile manufacturing environment; Best practices of major product developers; Challenging hands-on product development activities. Instructor's Guide includes course outlines, suggestions for teaching each chapter, and guidelines for overseeing and evaluating product development projects.

Teaching Literature and Language Online Ian Lancashire, 2009 The essays in this collection illuminate the realities of teaching language and literature courses online. Contributors present snapshots of their experiences with online pedagogies, realizing that just as this year's technology writes over last year's, the approaches and teaching tools they have pioneered will also be obscured by future innovations. At the same time, the volume describes models that first-time teachers of online courses will find useful and provides extensive insights into online education for those who are experienced in teaching blended and open source courses.
