E-Government Strategy Executive Office Executive Office of the President of the United States of America, Executive Office of the President of the, 2014-11-10 We live in an increasingly interconnected society where the Internet has spawned tremendous improvements in efficiency and customer service People use the telephone and the Internet to get service 24 hours a day seven days a week More than 60 percent of all Internet users interact with government websites E Government will save taxpayers a significant amount of money while adding value to citizens experience with government and better serving their needs Consequently the President has made Expanding E Government integral to a five part Management Agenda for making government more focused on citizens and results Federal information technology IT spending in the United States will exceed 48 billion in 2002 and 52 billion in 2003 That level of IT spending provides enormous opportunities for making the transformation government into a citizen centered E Government Indeed a good portion of current federal IT spending is devoted to Internet initiatives yielding over 35 million web pages online at over 22 000 web sites But past agency centered IT approaches have limited the government s productivity gains and ability to serve citizens As highlighted in this report the federal government is poised to transform the way it does business with citizens federal government check budget through the use of E Government This report presents the federal government s action plan for E Government The primary goals for the President s Expanding E Government initiative are to Make it easy for citizens to obtain service and interact with the federal government Improve government efficiency and effectiveness and Improve government s responsiveness to citizens OMB Director Mitchell E Daniels initiated an interagency E Government Task Force see Appendix A to identify the action plan for implementing the President s E Government initiative Under the leadership of Mark Forman Associate Director of Information Technology and E Government about 80 federal employees from across the federal government made up the Task Force see Appendix B The E Government Task Force found that the federal government could significantly improve customer service over the next 18 to 24 months by focusing on 23 high payoff government wide initiatives that integrate agency operations and IT investments subsequently

J. J. M. Bekkers,Vincent Homburg,2005 It seems that only a short time ago numerous academics and practitioners in the field were somewhat blinded by the successes of the dot com developments in the private sector and some of them enthusiastically claimed that public administration was to be revolutionized But that did not happen and also the dot com soap bubble burst This suggests that there is much yet to be learned about innovation in public administration especially about innovations at the cornerstones of technological and institutional transformations New and more fully developed formulations of theory into practice are needed The goal of the editors of this book is to contribute to some aspects of the understanding of e government In order to understand electronic government one has to scrutinize the various environments and contexts in which e government is developed and implemented As such it builds upon the biological and environmental lines of reasoning that have been suggested by authors like Bonnie Nardi and Vicky O Day and Thomas Davenport and Laurence Prusak E-government Strategy ,2002
