Training and Training Technology Issues for the Objective Force Warrior, 2003 The Objective Force concept calls for combining what is best from conventional and Special Operations Forces (SOF) cultures. This work identifies successful SOF training approaches and training issues that are potentially appropriate for training Objective Force Warrior (OFW) dismounted combatants and small units. A training questionnaire and detailed interviews were given to nine senior active-duty and recently retired NCOs who were chosen for their combat experience, instructor time, and extensive SOF experience. Supplementary interviews were conducted with subject-matter experts from the Infantry School and retired officers and NCOs working in high-risk training occupations such as law enforcement, special weapons and tactics instructors, security and protective services, and medical professionals. The report contains four complementary sections: OFW-relevant SOF training and training technology issues; SOF training techniques for various operational specialties; a listing and description of high-risk, high-performance military-related trainers in the private sector; and training technology vendors for the areas of sustainability, mobility, survivability, lethality, and situation awareness. The training and training technology issues discussed include time management, command of the basics, skill mastery, combat-focused training, visualization, emphasis on appropriate repetition, and the use of simple aids.
