

A sunset over the ocean with a dark, silhouetted landmass in the foreground. The sky is a gradient of orange and yellow, and the water is dark with some white foam from waves. The text is overlaid on the image.

We seem to be drifting into unknown places and unknown ways.

Drifting Into The Unknown:

Overcoming Regret Meco G. Caroway, 2018-05-30 I was lost in a world of regret that I needed a savior to redeem me from Lost like a breeze in the midst of a hurricane I was blinded by my very own ambition and I could not see nor navigate myself through life not knowing whether I was coming or going I made a plethora of mistakes that resulted in an avalanche of regret Regret that once controlled my life and imprisoned my metacognition I found myself like most people in a degenerating cycle fuel by the gravity of regret Three specific attributes governed my life as the gravity of regret influenced it I was governed by fear bad habits and the opinion of other people Fear of loss fear of rejection fear of failure and fear of the unknown Bad habits of illegitimate desire deception and disobedience The opinion of individual family church and the society in which I live

Walking Networks Blake Morris, 2019-11-05 Since the early 2000s there has been an increase in artists who are walking as an essential part of their artistic practice This book identifies the unique attributes of walking to develop a definition for walking as an artistic medium Drawing on historical sources such as the walks of the Romantic poets Dadaists and Letterist Situationist Internationals it presents a practice based approach to walking focused on the radical memory of the medium The book covers three contemporary organisations working to develop the artistic medium of walking London s Walking Artists Network Scotland s Walking Institute and New York City s Walk Exchange and looks at how these different organisation s strategies contribute to the development of the artistic medium of walking The book is framed by five walking exercises and invites the reader to create a memory palace for the medium of walking as a practical exploration of artistic walking practices

On not being Able to Play Marla Morris, 2019-02-11 Scholars and musicians from many different backgrounds will find this book helpful as it deals with psychic problems in both professions This book might help scholars and musicians to find a way out of their psychic dilemmas From classical musicians to rock stars from curriculum theorists to music teachers from anthropologists to philosophers this book takes the reader through a rocky intellectual terrain to explore what happens when one can no longer play or work The driving question of the book is this What do you do when you cannot do what you were called to do This is what the author calls The Crisis of Psyche The theoretical framework for this book combines curriculum theory psychoanalysis and phenomenology Here the author looks at issues of emotion and the working through of crisis points in the lives of both scholars and musicians Psychoanalytic theory helps to flesh out and untangle what it means to suffer from a damaged musical psyche and a damaged scholarly psyche How to work through psychic inertia as a scholar How to work through through psychic inertia as a musician From Pink Floyd to Laurie Anderson from Marion Milner to William F Pinar this book draws on the work of a wide range of musicians and scholars to find a way out of psychic blocks From Philip Glass to Pablo Casals from Michael Eigen to Mary Aswell Doll this book draws on the work of composers cellists psychoanalysts and educationists to find a way out of psychic meltdowns
